

Nursing Research Interest Group Educational Webinar

SPECIAL GUEST LECTURE

Wednesday, March 18, 2020
12-1pm EST

Presentation by
Fiona Muckle RN, BSc, BScN, MSc

Title of Presentation:
Beyond the bedside: Nursing opportunities in research

Fiona is currently enrolled in her second year of the Nurse Practitioner (Adult) program at the University of Toronto. She is participating in the collaborative specialization in Aging & the Life Course. She has previous professional experience as an RN working in the Emergency Department at Toronto Western Hospital and Mount Sinai Hospital, and in the Cognitive Neurology Research Unit at Sunnybrook Research Institute. She attended the University of Guelph where she obtained her Bachelor and Master of Science degrees and the University of Toronto where she obtained her Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree. She has a well-developed nursing practice interest in the acute care of the elderly, geriatrics and dementia care from her clinical experiences. She has worked on quality improvement initiatives in the areas of adult health literacy and falls prevention and hopes to pursue a career as a Nurse Practitioner working with vulnerable older adults living with cognitive impairment and mental illness.

Please join us online at <https://zoom.us/j/455381612>

Meeting ID: 455 381 612

Dial by your location: +1 647 558 0588

The archived webinar will be available after the presentation at www.nrig.ca
under Education & Resources

For more information, please contact Amy Wright, NRIG Chair at nrig.chair@gmail.com